

About Foster & Bridge-ND

Foster & Bridge-ND began its activities in 2010 as a training and development company under license from the Foster & Bridge brand. The company focuses on serving individuals and corporations by developing their human capital, thus enabling them to face competition and new challenges. For that, the company relies on its high end training courses that help develop the attendees' skills and a more inner perception of business and how to communicate and deal with everyday professional situations. These courses are ministered by highly qualified professionals that share their various fields of business in order to enrich them. With this in mind, Foster&Bridge-ND contributes to and expands the knowledge of Indonesian professionals, not to mention the entire Indonesian society too.

The values and philosophies of Foster & Bridge-ND are composed of Nurturing, Elevating, and Connecting the Indonesian society and its professional developments. For each pillar discipline, the correct methodologies are applied, as each of them follows a very well defined path not only to teach each applicant but to guide him or her as well.

Nurturing (from scrap to an achievement)

Foster & Bridge is present to nourish and shape upcoming skillful & successful individuals. This happens by elaborating and polishing their personal and professional figure to portray their excellence.

Elevating (from the bottom to the top)

Foster & Bridge is the stepping stone on which professionals find the needed support for all levels in order to give the commonly difficult first steps of the ascension. Attendees will climb towards a better self, thus encountering better advantages, better professional standings and better private lives along the endeavor, both in their vocations and in society.

Connecting (from one to all)

Foster & Bridge advocates that no individual can ever be proficient and complete as long as he or she doesn't create, maintain and value connections in his or her scope of activity. In order to succeed, one has to address those who strive to provide everything off them so naturally talented people can thrive and beget the best of both worlds: their career and private enterprises.

The Role of Foster&Bridge

In the last couple of decades we have testified to a crescent technical revolution in the industries that, in order to progress, demand highly qualified and passionate professionals. Foster&Bridge's Quality Training & Development program is second to none when measuring important aspects in enterprise sustainability as it offers the Holy Grail of any serious enterprise, no matter its geographic location: a competitive advantage over other enterprises.

Training is an educational experience that pursues a somewhat durable change in someone, and that will develop that person's capacity to excel at his or her vocational job. Development, on the other hand, concentrates on applying the correct forces in order to enrich certain individuals so they can fare exceptionally well in further professional positions and responsibilities. Even though the two processes are different in terms of time spans, the expected results are essentially the same. For a company to succeed, it is of the utmost importance that it employs effective and efficient tactics that collide directly with their needs. By doing so, an enterprise stops being a follower and starts acting like a leader.
